

About Us:

The Mercer County Conservation District is located on Munnell Run Farm in Mercer, PA, which is a remnant of the agricultural land that surrounded and supported the Mercer County Home and Hospital. We have 163 acres of that original 353 “poor farm” that we utilize for our outdoor and agricultural education programs while showcasing agricultural best management practices with our tenant farmer. We provide hands-on, interactive learning for all ages on anything outdoors or agriculture-related. Our motto is “get outside, come alive” and we emphasize the importance of our audiences feeling connected to their local environment and providing the spark within to actively conserve it.

What's In a Name:

Munnell Run Farm gets its name from the stream that flows through the property. Although we can't verify which Munnell the stream is named after, it has been said that the Munnell family occupied a farm just south of the existing Munnell Run Farm property.
